

News, sports, educational and documentary videos make up the majority of partner content by duration

Usage data indicates that it is not the sheer number of video titles that drives playback, but the quality of videos

How is Google Video doing?

- • YouTube is getting more traffic and engagement than Google Video today. In March 2006*:

	YouTube	Google
Visitors*	12.8 million	7.9 million
Page Views*	486 million	81 million
Duration*	20m53s	8m40s
Uploads	1 million	120,000

- • Qualitative research in 4 countries reveals the reasons behind this:

- YouTube is designed around the viral video experience. It is clear what the site is about, it promotes uploading, and it makes it easy to browse video categories

- YouTube promotes its viral and community features above all else

- • YouTube's content is all free, and much of it is highly sought after pirated clips

How has International usage differed? What are the learnings?

International: We have to avoid being US-centric since more usage comes from outside the US, where there are big differences in taste and consumption across different countries

- 63% of our playbacks and 40% of our uploads come from outside the US
- Large fraction of videos have large majority of playbacks from a single country (Potential takeaway: different videos resonate in different countries)
- Playback and support for premium vs. user-generated content varies significantly across different countries (Germany vs. Spain)
- Most of the non-US top videos have titles/descriptions not legible in English
- Top videos in non-US countries typically don't get big US viewership

Google Video internationally

- Europe lags the US in internet video usage, but is quickly catching up. No site has yet built a pan-European presence
 - Google Video receives 30% of playbacks from top 7 EU countries
 - Qualitative research reveals interest in premium content varies by country. People in countries with lower internet video usage (Germany, France) tend to seek premium over user-generated content
- Google Video became an “international product,” even before localized versions were launched
 - 63% of playbacks and 40% of uploads come from outside the US today
 - GV's top 10 countries are all western countries. This could be because our uploader and indexing does not fully support CJK characters yet

	Number of internet users (millions)	Internet users who use video 1x/month (%)
UK	35	13%
ES	13	27%
FR	25	15%
DE	46	7%
USA	200	46%

- Videos in the index are still English-centric, despite the fact that 50% of playbacks come from non-English speaking countries
 - However, analysis shows that the most popular videos requested from non-English speaking countries still get enough playbacks to rise to “global” popularity status
 - This shows a strong demand exists for local content that we need to encourage
- Our top videos drive a disproportionate amount of traffic from outside the US
 - 30% of the top 200 videos in the GV index receive at least 70% of playbacks from just a single country
 - 56% of the top 200 videos receive the most playbacks from a non-US country

Important points to make somewhere in the deck:

- YouTube's business model is completely sustained by pirated content. They are at the mercy of companies not responding with DMCA requests. When they do (like CSPAN did with S. Colbert), they suffer
- The DMCA law could be overturned if the media industry engages in sustained lobbying efforts (it was written before the viral video craze took off), and it is risky to build an entire business model on this law. It is also not scalable to expand internationally since DMCA is a US law
- The YouTube business model is also not monetizable. They are an AdSense publisher, so we have a good sense of their rate of monetization:PV
- YouTube is going after one slice of the internet video market – funny, user-made videos. There are many more slices in the pie and GV should try to be the broadest possible index
- We need to continue CBG support for video internationally b/c we don't have good ad monetization solutions yet, and some content producers will only distribute their content if they can sell it
- There is a big market for high quality premium content, but it is largely going to be shorter form, as opposed to 2 hour movies. Perhaps this means we should be working with media companies to get 2-4 minute funny clips from their shows. This will drive traffic, raise awareness of their TV shows (e.g., Lazy Sunday boosted SNL's ratings), and be very monetizable

Monetization Potential of Different Content Types

○ Size denotes traffic potential

Video monetization possibilities

Sponsored Video – requires high-touch premium content to premium advertiser matching – needs top content and TV-style CPMs to work

Sliding scale of ad frequencies as video gets longer

	# of people interested in seeing video*	$ amount advertiser will pay		movie length (mins)	minutes per ad	# ads per stream	advertising cut to content owner	$ value to content owner	$ each advertiser pays

Tip Jar – “busker” or “shareware” model may deliver strong incentives to user uploaders but nothing to corporate partners (Google would pass through all fees)

	# of people interested in seeing video*	Fraction who will tip	Average tip	$ value to content owner	Rationale for tipping guesses
911 Loose change	4,560,448	5%	$ 2.00	$ 91,209	Big tip for charity or interest group: long highly-edited video, engaged viewers

Text ads – familiar Google technology accessible to smaller advertisers can monetize standard partner and user content (Google could keep a fraction of ad revenues)

Decisions on copyright policy and product features will significantly impact the activities of the content team in 2006

Priorities of content team

With Disconnected DRM
& limited devices
accelerated to Q2/Q3

- Keep premium and standard teams separate
- Build premium relationships through multi-property deals
- Engage premium partners in supporting crawl and metadata extraction efforts
- Seek multi-language support from existing premium partners
- Engage premium partners on enabling viral clips

Status Quo: no DRM
changes, no copyright
policy changes

- Communicate to premium partners no material DRM improvements this year
- Engage premium partners in sponsored content streaming ad test/deployment only – otherwise move premium team to standard content acquisition effort
- Focus on securing non-US and non-English language content deals with new partners
- Await improvements in search and browse to produce real data on user preferences to guide further partner content acquisition

No DRM changes, loosen copyright policy on short clips

- Increase staffing and/or resources to content acquisition, ops and legal teams to handle complaints and potential litigation
- Limit damage through public policy, investor relations, press and premium partner meetings
- Support partners' use of review tools
- Reach out to non-partner content owners – actively promote review tool

Google
(09-003)

Potential results of changing copyright enforcement policies

- Likely acceptance among users (especially highly media-aware young demographic)
 - Higher traffic, higher profile as destination site
 - Increased uploads of user content as well as copyrighted content
 - Potential to monetize higher volume of traffic
 - Achieve OKRs on traffic and uploads
- Inability to independently gauge what kind of impact on traffic other options can have
 - Improvements in features and user experience
 - Modifying copyright protection through applying public pressure through increased collaboration with content owners and indirect pressure through press and public policy
- Some content owners sue Google
 - Diversion of management attention
 - Negative PR
 - Potential monetary damages
- Loss of trust from content providers
 - Reduced future access to content
 - Reduced willingness to partner with other Google properties
 - Reduced AdSense partnerships and revenues (not just in Video)
- Inconsistent with assertions in book search and library partner program for respecting copyrights
 - Press, public and potentially courts will see loosening of video standards as sign of overall approach to copyrights
- Loss of trust from advertisers
 - Wish to avoid negative associations
 - Reduced ad revenues

Offer GV distribution/promotional prowess to those who don't have scale

Speaker Notes Slide: 9

In addition to premium content, "torso" content presents opportunities for competitive differentiation

Leverage GV promotion, traffic, tools for professional content owners who don't have scale

Take advantage of more relaxed DRM requirements among this class of owners

Few competitors will have resources or expertise to identify and close large volumes of torso deals

Some bullet that speaks to tremendous growth rate/volume of user-generated content

Others? This is a lot already but skews toward the "head" content; we may need more "tail" bullets and more about "torso", e.g., GV announces initiative to digitize NARA content

Message we're trying to communicate: The market is very young but extremely fast-moving; premium content owners have really become more aggressive and open to experimentation; user-generated trend is huge
